Since the bi-county bridge is part of parcel of Highway 90, it was but reasonable to assume the state would assume the cost of building the bridge, inasmuch the highway department maintains the bridge as part of the public and state-owned highway. Had the court decided favorably the state would have to assume all bond obligations.

MINERALS SCATTERED.

NO one nation has a monopoly on the minerals of the earth nor can any country in this modern age exist independently of imports from some other place on the globe.

Eight countries are extremely favored, consuming four-fifths of the world's mineral production. The United States is the world's largest consumer, likewise the largest producer of several of the minerals.

Coal is fairly important to the world but four nations produce three-fourths of the supply, namely, America, England, France and Germany. What part has this economic asset played in making these four nations world leaders? It would be interesting to ascertain.

Oil is replacing coal as a fuel in many ways. Here again, our own country is fortunate. Five nations, the United States, Mexico, Russia, Persia and Venezuela, produce nine-tenths of the supply. That doesn't mean that other nations are shared out, for, like Britain in Persia and Mexico, other countries are partners in the exploitation of this resource.

So, with other minerals, the production is confined mainly to a few localities. Eighty-five per cent, of the iron ore comes from three countries, copper is mined in three major regions, tin in three, and nickel from two. No one country, however, has a monopoly on them all, fortunately for the rest of the world. And new supplies frequently come to light.

NUMBER ONE PROBLEM.

WHEN you get a little spare time you might consider for your own satisfaction, if for no other reason, what many consider the number one problem of the nation.

Unemployment of millions of workers constitutes a challenge to the future of the United States. So long as it continues there can be no security for the young people, anxious to begin life but without the opportunity to secure profitable employment.

Since the depression thousands of young men and young women have had to face life without employment. There was a time when such a condition would have been a reflection upon the youth involved but not so today. The United States, despite its great progress, discovered that its economic set-up had failed and there was want amid plenty.

There are many things that can be said about the depression which followed the boom days of 1929 but the strangest of all is the amazing revelation of a panic in the midst of abundance. Here we had people galore, commodities galore and food galore but for some reason the economic machine did not click and the wheels stopped.

INHABITED FOR 2,500 YEARS.

It is interesting to report that Harvard University geologists, after an extensive study of the Lindenmeier Valley in Northeastern Colorado, are satisfied that men have lived in North America for twenty-five thousand years.

What amazes us is not the antiquity of man or his long residence anywhere on the face of the globe, but rather the slowness with which human beings solve the fundamental problems of their existence. No one knows how many civilizations have flourished and collapsed in the long record of the human race, nor can anyone tell today what the future holds for present civilizations.

While it is interesting to discover new facts about existence in former eras and to speculate upon the 'shape of things to come,' the people of today must concentrate upon the problems of the hour. In testing possible solutions, it is well to weigh the basic principles involved with the knowledge that comes from the past and to be certain that they do not conflict with basic human instincts.

THE POWER OF THE PRESS IN LOUISIANA'S ELECTION.

THE power of the press has again been proved in Tuesday's election over in Louisiana. The majority of newspapers favored the Jones ticket and condemned the Long candidates in no uncertain light.

New Orleans newspapers put up a valiant fight. One that was clean-cut, decisive. Armed with right there was no hesitancy in turning on the spotlight.

While the administration ticket carried New Orleans the power of the press cut Long's majority way below the number it otherwise would have been.

The rural press in majority was for the reform candidate and its power, too, was felt when the ballots were counted.

The power of the press is potent. It cannot be discounted. If it is fair and dependable as the newspapers generally are, the people repose their confidence in opinions thus expressed and benefit by the information printed and published.

We certainly must compliment the New Orleans press in particular.

Last week the nation celebrated Lincoln's birthday; this week it remembers George Washington; maybe, some day, it will honor yours.

END OF THE LONG DYNASTY IN LOUISIANA.

OVERS of honest, clean, and decent government applauded the result of the gubernatorial second primary election held in Louisiana Tuesday when Sam H. Jones defeated Governor Earl K. Long by a majority at this writing passing the twenty-thousand mark majority.

Gov. Long is a product of the Louisiana machine built by his late brother, Huey P. Long, twelve years ago, and with his defeat the Long Dynasty ends.

It has been bold, dictatorial and apparently knew no limit. Always within bounds, but that is not always morally honest even though legally correct.

This is the history of all boss administration. The end is inevitable and comes sooner or later. Only recently the end of the Prendergast regime in Kansas came to the ultimate grief and voters smashed the machine and its leaders voted out of power.

The history of Louisiana in recent years is too well and widely known to bear repetition here. There has been nothing but scandal and reproach. The story of graft and corruption has no equal and it is not passing strange that already a number of the higherups have been convicted and assigned to penal servitude, while court dockets carry some two hundred indictments and prison doors will again open.

It is a sad commentary on a state of Louisiana's standing and importance, where natural resources are among the more abundant in the country; where people of culture and doing abide, with a rich historical background.

Gangster methods have besmirched the fair name of Louisiana. But there is much in the thought that the full reform ticket was nominated, paramount to election; and the people may look forward to a new era of justice and prosperity.

Mississippians are naturally interested in the success of its neighbor on their achievement. The voters in majority are to be congratulated on their success and the nominees have best wishes for the success of the great work that lies before them.

It is well that the entire anti-administration ticket was elected. This means for a clean slate, a new beginning. And shall we say for the dawning of a new era?

PASSING OF PHILLIP LEVINE.

DEATH of Phillip Levine, Bay St. Louis and coast business man, at his home in Biloxi a few days since, removes from the everyday life a useful citizen and one whose enterprise and progressiveness was well high exemplary, an inspiration to others to develop and to do in this coast land of opportunity.

News of his death came not only as a surprise, but was a shock to the many who knew him best and admired his sterling qualities.

It was Phillip Levine who came to Bay St. Louis some years ago and with one sweep purchased a dilapidated business section of non-descript buildings that truly were eyesores and a drawback to the city. It was that first section of the city presenting itself to view when one alighted from a train. Surely a poor advertisement to strangers.

With his characteristic enterprise and indomitable will Levine put every shack into the discard and in their place he soon had built a business block of brick buildings that have proven a contributing factor to the success of our city.

His enterprise extended over the main strand of this coastal country. But with the slump that followed the boom he, too, like many others, was caught in the meshes of disaster that followed. Nevertheless, while his losses were heavy, and he took them manfully, the buildings remain and serve as a monument to this pioneer of building a new and modern Bay St. Louis. This was an impetus and soon other buildings of this type followed over various sections of the city.

His death is regretted. He was a builder and doer and not afraid of the future. To the contrary, he builded and assured a future. There was nothing impossible to this business man.

RIGOROUS DIETS DANGEROUS.

WOMEN and young girls all over the country have gone crazy on the subject of reduction in weight. Every one of them who imagines that she is a few pounds beyond a sylph-like figure plans to cut down food in order to take off the excess.

Well, it is rather risky, ladies. You don't have to take our word for it. Consult your doctor.

Few women in Hancock county are dieticians of sufficient experience to know how to properly diet themselves. Nine times out of ten the careless 'diets' results in more fat, or at least no reduction, but are accompanied, it is feared by medical authorities, with nervous diseases and a general weakening of the body.

One way to reduce is to take more exercise. Try that before you cut out food. Of course, we know that most people eat too much and could eliminate some poundage by eating properly but to severely reduce the diet is positively dangerous.

RAILROADS OFFER AUTOMOBILES.

ELEVEN of the largest western railroads will begin a new travel service in May when they will make available to passengers on their trains a combination automobile service which will permit long train trips to be broken by part-time travel in automobiles.

The service will begin in May in more than one hundred fifty key cities where the railroads will have two thousand automobiles available for hire at approximately eight cents a mile regardless of whether they are used by one or five persons. The rate includes gasoline and all charges and are subject to certain minimums, beginning at eighty cents an hour, six dollars per twelve-hour day and twenty-eight dollars per week.

This looks like a step in the direction of developing more business for the railroads. It represents intelligence in meeting competition and there is no reason why it should not be serviceable and profitable to the railroads and their customers.

Hollywood Notes.

NEWS has reached us that Claudette Colbert and Henry Amar will have the feminine leads opposite Clark Gable and Spencer Tracy in Metro's "Boom Town," based on the oil boom at Burdett, Texas. Production is scheduled to begin almost immediately.

Melodrama is coming into its own again in Hollywood, after having undergone strenuous facelifting and streamlining. Practically every studio has one or more melodramas on its current schedule. Among them may be listed:

Paramount's "Destiny," with Basil Rathbone, and "Adventure in Diamonds," with George Brent and Isa Miranda and "The Way of All Flesh," featuring Gladys George and Akim Tamiroff. Also, one might mention, such melodramas as "The Night of January 16," "The Grapes of Wrath," "Green Hell," "Of Mice and Men," "The Woman from Hell," "The Ghost Breakers," etc.

It used to be considered boxoffice poison for any romantic player to get married but today, with the exception of Mickey Rooney, who is only 19, every one of the ten leading money-making stars of 1939 is married.

Another astounding change recently noted is the fact that movie fatherhood is becoming increasingly popular among the men of the screen. Practically every leading actor has recently had a role as a screen father, the only exception being Robert Taylor.

Speaking of Robert Taylor, we might casually mention that he is now wearing a mustache. His friends think it very becoming.

Warner Brothers bought the rights to "Quietly My Captain Waits," a novel of romantic adventure in New France in 1740, by Evelyn Eaton, for $40,000, even before the novel was published.

Eddie Bracken, who succeeded Ezra Stone as Henry Aldrich in "What a Life," on Broadway, has been placed under contract by Paramount and will appear with Lella Ernst of the Broadway hit, "Too Many Girls," in "Henry Aldrich No." which will start next month.

In order to get herself noticed and in line for better pictures, Olivia De Havilland staged a publicity stunt all by herself. She bought herself some sophisticated clothes, went out each night with a different man, and recently allowed her name to be linked romantically with that of Jimmy Stewart. With new eyes and rumor has it that a new contract, with bigger and better pictures, is almost in the bag.

Claudette Colbert has three pictures to do this year, at a price of $150,000 per. The first, "Night of January 16," with Don Ameche, will be followed by "Arise, My Love," and that will be followed by "Reap the Wild Wind," for which Paramount is said to have paid $50,000.

Cordell Hickman, 8-year-old Negro boy, who made a hit in the stage production of "The Minkido in Swing," and the screen production, "The Biscuit Eater," will be Tarzan Junior's companion in his next adventure for MGM. He will play the role of a native boy whom the little white boy finds in the jungle—takes as his bosom companion and shares his adventures.

With Greer Garson and Laurence Olivier in the cast of "Pride and Prejudice," will be Maureen O'Sullivan, Ann Rutherford, Marsha Hunt, Heather Angel, Keran Morley, Frieda Inescort, Jane Drummond, Reginald Owen, Bruce Lester, Mary Boland and Edmund Gwenn.

Rudy Vallee may appear with Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland as the band leader in "Strike Up the Band."

First Lenten Sermon Given at DeLisle Thursday Night, Feb. 15

A beautiful sermon was given at DeLisle Thursday night, February 15, the first sermon of the Lenten season. Rev. R. F. Waters was the preacher and he said:

The Christian Home where Christ said, "I am the way, the truth and the life." He said he has pointed the way in which people are to walk and in making known the truth he has made known all learning necessary for people to have a safe, happy journey through life and following his way, believing his truth. He is our life. His help and assistance necessary for people to live happy lives.

People say there is such a thing as family life. In the midst of all this criticism—and all we read and hear about Christian homes—and against them.

To whom can we go or find? but to Christ himself. His own home with none of the necessities of life, was a happy home and it was happy because Love permeated this poor home. Love between a Father and a Mother. Love between parents and children.

Christ's way, Christ's teachings—Christ's help will make our home happy.

BUILDING LIMITATIONS EDGEWATER PARK REMOVED BY RULING OF COURT—RESTRICTION LAWS DECLARED TO BE OBSOLETE.

Heretofore Dwellings Costing Less Than $10,000 Could Not Be Constructed—Greater and Rapid Development Of Premises Now Expected.

Gulfport, Miss., February 16—

Building restrictions in Edgewater Park, residential subdivision on the beach between Gulfport and Biloxi, were removed by Chancellor D. M. Russell in an opinion handed down today in the case of John M. Taylor against Edgewater Park et al. tried at a previous term of chancery court at Gulfport and carried forward for argument and briefs.

Taylor, owner of some lots in the restricted subdivision had out some 14 years ago during the real estate boom days on the Mississippi Coast, was joined in his suit to have the restrictions, one of which was that no house could be erected costing less than $10,000, by Properties, Inc., of New Orleans, owner by reason of foreclosure of 136 lots in the subdivision.

Of the 50 or 60 individual owners of other lots in the subdivision only one, Dr. Bliss, defended the suit and sought to have the restrictions kept in force or in the alternative merely modified.

There have been only a few homes erected in the subdivision and Taylor maintained that the restrictions were retarding its development and preventing property owners from either selling or making improvements on their lots.

Pointing out that the restrictions were imposed primarily for the benefit of the grantor, Edgewater Park Company, which has long since ceased to exist and is unable to carry out covenants made with the few property owners to whom it sold lots Chancellor Russell held that the restrictions as against the property owners should be removed.

Among the covenants carried in the deeds of conveyance imposing the $10,000 residential restriction was one by the Edgewater Park Company that it would furnish an architect to approve plans for proposed buildings, but since the company is no more and this portion of the covenant manifestly cannot be fulfilled, the court ruled that the lot purchasers should not be held to specific performance.

It was further shown in the covenants that in case the company went out of existence, an organization of the property owners should select the architect for approval of plans for residences in the subdivision. There has been no such "organization" of the property owners formed, it was pointed out in the opinion, and no indications that there is any prospect of the formation of such an organization.

Pointing out that there has been very few sales of lots in the subdivision within recent years and discounting the theory that removal of the restrictions would tend to lower the stability of the property or make it less desirable for home sites, the court sustained the petition for removal of the restrictions.

It also held that no restrictions were imposed on any owners of lots in the subdivision except those whose deeds of conveyance so specified, which means that the Properties, Inc., owners of the majority of the lots obtained through foreclosure, were not bound by any building restriction covenants.

Notes From Edwardsville School and Lunch Room

With the prevailing flu in our community we have several children absent, but we have had good work and substantial lunches thru-out the cold weather.

Mrs. Richardson with the aid of our sponsors has given us the very best of lunches and Mrs. Sylvester has kept us busy, so we have felt no ill effects from the unusual cold.

We have had several visitors, and we are always glad to have them. One of our sponsors, Mrs. Marshall Ballard and party visited us this week and we were very happy to have them. We look forward to having our interested friends visit us often.

Valentine Day was one of happiness to us, we exchanged greetings of love, and enjoyed a "very special" dinner. We look forward to our next "Special Days" and are never disappointed. We are remembering February as a patriotic month. We anxiously hope the rest of the world will also "remember" and put forth every effort to regain world peace.

IT'S LOTS OF MONEY.

Prof. J. S. Vandiver, state superintendent of education has issued an appeal for passage of the bill sponsored by the Mississippi Educational Association asking an increase of $2,000,000 in the biennial appropriation for public schools.

Prof. Vandiver points out that the average daily attendance in the public schools, white and negroes, during the 1938-39 session showed an increase of 34,562.

A total of $2,000,000 to take care of less than 35,000 new pupils looks like a goodly sum of money.—Jackson News.

Naval Air Force Reserve, after putting one of the latest types of naval training ships through maneuvers at Long Beach, California," says artist Wiley Padan. "Beery took the morning off from his starring role in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's 'Man From Dakota' to take the training ship aloft, put it into thirteen consecutive spins, demonstrate inside and outside loops and make a vertical power dive from which he was required to emerge headed due east, among other tests."

HOW TO SELECT A WIFE—(MAYBE)

Mere man, in his search for a wife, is always more or less at the mercy of designing females.

For the benefit of the many citizens of Hancock county, but without any knowledge as to the true state of affairs, we submit the revelations of an unnamed Swiss savant who says that a man can always learn the character of the girl he wants to marry by watching her peeling, cleaning and cooking potatoes.

According to this wise man from Switzerland, "If she peels the potato, cutting thick rings, she is extravagant. If she leaves the eyes, she is lazy. If she uses a great deal of fat in cooking, she is greedy, and if she allows it to burn, she is negligent."

Youthful swains, after carefully submitting the young ladies to the above test and finding them blameless, are urged to marry, whether she is rich or poor, ugly or pretty, for she will prove a good friend and wife, bringing prosperity and happiness. Maybe!

"The Finish Army is condemned to death," if it does not receive aid in its fight against Russia, says Dr. Harri Holna, Finland's Minister to France.

Commenting on the spectacular success of the Finish defense thus far, the Minister says, "An army can perform one miracle, but never a series of miracles." He knows, as well as the military experts of the world know, that without substantial aid, the vast weight of the Soviet Army will inevitably crush the Finish army under its heel.

With 18,000,000 of the world's gold in our possession, it seems that no mistake would be made if some of the gold happens to be used in the defense of democracy. Certainly, the cheapest way to fight a war is to pay somebody else to fight it. While this is pretty callous, the people of the United States seem determined not to participate in actual fighting. Why not use some of their gold to assure the triumph of the forces which we believe will work for the improvement and peace of the world?

SHEDDING CROCODILE TEARS.

That's trying to hit us right in the belly!" exclaimed one indignant working man when he read about the Ford bill introduced in the Senate seeking to place a drastic tax on chain stores. A lot of crocodile tears are being shed among law-makers over the plight of the aged, the poor farmers and the school teachers, but darned little consideration is being shown for Mr. John Consumer who has to bear the burden of it all.—Jackson News.

Mrs. John Dugan and Mrs. Donald Jewett were joint hostesses at a birthday luncheon and matinee party given in New Orleans Thursday—Washington's birthday—complimenting Mrs. C. J. Chadwick, formerly of Bay St. Louis, on the occasion of her birthday. Friends from Bay St. Louis attended this event.

THE KAISER'S SUGGESTION

The former Kaiser, now in exile in the Netherlands, suggests that Germany and Great Britain and France make peace in order to join in a concentrated warfare upon the Reds.

This is an interesting suggestion which has been made before. Let us suppose, however, that Herr Hitler would make a concrete proposal to Great Britain and France to carry into effect the suggestion of the Kaiser. What possible assurance would either of the Democratic nations have that Hitler intended to carry out his agreement?

The lack of faith in the purposes and pledged word of Hitler represents the great barrier to negotiated peace and practically makes this impossible until the German Government is controlled by officials in whose word there can be reliance.

THREE BRILLIANT NEWSPAPER WOMEN.

Three of the best newspapers in Mississippi are edited by women and they are all rattling good writers. Mrs. Harriet Gibbons, of the Laurel Leader-Call, Miss Hazel Brannon, of the Durant News, and Miss Mary Cain, of the Summit Sun. It is worthy of note that these three women writers viciously denounce the farcical character of prohibition enforcement in Mississippi and favor the sale of liquor through state-controlled stores.—Jackson News.

Gone With the Wind.

That talkative workman was in conversation with an admiring audience in the village store. He was explaining that even in his job which people might think dull, there was sometimes quite a lot of excitement.

"Why, I can remember once a gas explosion tore up a main street where I was working."

"And what did you do?"

"Oh, I tore up a side street."
